Redcurrants

Blackcurrants

Blackcurrants are slightly tart and sharp fruits that are usually eaten cooked in jams, puddings and preserves. We grow a variety called Ebony.

Blackberries

Our commercially grown blackberries are much larger than their wild hedgerow counterparts and are great in puddings and desserts. They also freeze beautifully so why not put some in the freezer for a 'fruit boost' in the winter months? We grow the varieties Karaka Black, Loch Tay and Loch Ness.
