HADS presents

The Stage Premier of a New Play by Christopher Reason, coming to Woking's Rhoda McGaw Theatre in May.

A thought-provoking modern drama of class, corruption and cover-ups.

BURNING THE WITCH

Previous HADS productions of This Repulsive Woman and Every Child Matters in Drama Festivals were highly praised by the audiences and received Best Play, Director, Actor and Actress awards from the adjudicators.

Now Christopher Reason, best known for his radio and TV dramas has written the third short play, The War on Crime, to complete the full length three Act Play Burning the Witch.

Based on the earlier success, he has given HADS director, Colin Orbaum, the right to present its premiere in Woking and fortunately the original actors and production team are still available.

Full of his usual sparkling, moving and often humorous dialogue, Christopher Reason's trilogy tells how the lives of six people are affected by one criminal prosecution.

This is an opportunity for local theatre goers to see a top quality production without paying West End prices.
