A Different Thread is a transatlantic folk/alt-country duo based in North Carolina, formed by Alicia Best from Durham, NC, and Robert Jackson from Lichfield, UK. The pair first met busking on the streets of Ireland and have since toured internationally, developing a harmony-driven sound that blends Appalachian alt-country and British folk rock into a bluesy take on Americana.

They have received praise from BBC 6 Music, RTÉ, NPR, No Depression, The Bluegrass Situation and Germany's Rolling Stone Magazine. The title track from their latest album, Over Again, won Best in Folk/Americana at the 2026 International Acoustic Music Awards.

Live, A Different Thread combines harmony-led songwriting with acoustic guitar, fiddle, harmonica and suitcase drums, joined by double bassist Mike Seal from Birmingham UK the trio moves between intimate moments, foot-stomping energy and audience singalongs. Their songs explore personal stories alongside bigger questions about mental health, social change and our relationship with the environment, all with an underlying sense of hope.

"We write songs to bring people together, to inspire kindness, and to work towards a brighter future for all." - A Different Thread

About A Different Thread

A Different Thread is an engaging UK/US duo that formed while street performing in Ireland, which has shaped their unique transatlantic style. Their honeyed voices blend to create harmony-driven singalongs and bluesy ballads. Guitar, fiddle, harmonica, and suitcase drums bring their original songs and stories to life in a warm, uplifting performance delivered with heart, grit, and raw energy.
