

the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are employed in the public sector has increased by 1.5 million, from 2.5 million in 1980 to 4 million in 1999. The public sector has also become an important employer of people with disabilities, with 1.5 million people with disabilities employed in the public sector in 1999, compared with 1.2 million in 1980.

There are a number of reasons why the public sector has become an important employer of people with disabilities. One reason is that the public sector has a long history of employing people with disabilities. In the 19th century, the public sector employed people with disabilities in a number of different roles, including as clerks, typists, and stenographers.

Another reason why the public sector has become an important employer of people with disabilities is that the public sector has a number of different departments and agencies, each of which has its own specific needs. This means that the public sector can employ people with disabilities in a wide range of roles, from clerical to professional.

Finally, the public sector has a number of different policies and procedures in place to support people with disabilities. This means that people with disabilities can find it easier to get a job in the public sector than in the private sector.

There are a number of challenges facing the public sector in the future. One challenge is that the public sector is facing a number of different pressures, including from the government, the public, and the media. This means that the public sector will need to be able to adapt to these pressures in the future.

Another challenge facing the public sector is that the public sector is facing a number of different changes, including in the way it is organized and the way it is funded. This means that the public sector will need to be able to adapt to these changes in the future.

Finally, the public sector is facing a number of different opportunities. One opportunity is that the public sector has a number of different departments and agencies, each of which has its own specific needs. This means that the public sector can employ people with disabilities in a wide range of roles, from clerical to professional.

Description/Terms and Conditions

Today we've brought out an exciting collection of our own-grown herbaceous perennials and annuals from our nursery tunnels.

Grown in 9/10cm pots, we have around 30 varieties, over 700 plants including:-

- ?? Scabiosa
- ?? Gaura
- ?? Rudbeckia
- ?? Verbena
- ?? Hollyhocks
- ?? Cosmos
- ?? Aquilegia
- ?? Geum
- ?? Evening Primrose
- ?? Larkspur
- ?? Spanish Daisy
- ?? Coreopsis and many others.

We've taken images of the plants that are in flower now and added stock pictures of some of them yet to flower.

These are all young plants which are ideal for potting up and growing on and are just £2.50 each - which is a bargain by itself - but we're offering FIVE plants for £10.

We're very proud to say that these have all been grown in our nursery.

There's some unusual varieties here, and they're either in flower now or will be flowering later in the summer.

You'd be mad to miss out ??
